Buyer verification packet

A procurement-ready evidence packet for evaluating an AI Agent pilot before scale.

Use this packet to inspect whether scope, owners, artifact inventory, human review, and client-side materials are ready for a governed pilot.

- Procurement decision checklist
- Artifact inventory
- Human review
- Client materials still needed

Sample / redacted procurement material. Not a public named-client endorsement.

Buyer verification packet

Use this packet to inspect whether scope, owners, artifact inventory, human review, and client-side materials are ready for a governed pilot.

Procurement decision checklist

Scope, owner, reviewer, approver, data boundary, acceptance metric, and stop/expand decision are reviewed before build.

Artifact inventory

Workflow blueprint, material inventory, permission matrix, acceptance table, review log, and operating playbook are listed as inspectable evidence.

Human review

Risk actions stay in draft, approval, or escalation mode until the buyer signs off on external action rules.

Client materials still needed

Named testimonials, delivery photos, legal entity documents, and sensitive samples require explicit client authorization or procurement exchange.

Buyer review focus

Buyer verification packet

Purpose

- Give procurement a structured way to verify the first pilot.
- Separate redacted sample evidence from real client proof that still needs approval.
- Keep the discussion focused on one workflow instead of broad AI claims.

Procurement decision checklist

- Business owner, workflow owner, data owner, reviewer, and approver are named.
- Source whitelist and excluded materials are documented.
- Acceptance metric and review cadence are agreed before implementation.
- Expansion decision requires evidence from the pilot log.

Buyer verification packet

Artifact inventory

- Workflow blueprint
- Material inventory
- Permission matrix
- Acceptance table
- Review log
- Operating playbook

Human review

- External sends, CRM updates, customer promises, approvals, and finance-sensitive actions remain in review mode.
- Low-confidence or policy-conflicting outputs route to named owners.
- Reviewer decisions are captured as tuning evidence.

Buyer verification packet

Client materials still needed

- Legal entity and contracting documents for procurement.
- Approved real customer testimonials or logo permissions.
- Real delivery photos or screenshots with explicit authorization.
- Sensitive data samples only after a written scope is agreed.

Procurement review table

Procurement decision checklist Scope, owner, reviewer, approver, data boundary, acceptance metric, and stop/expand decision are reviewed before build.
